Danny Ballard, one of three comedians for the show "We Can Make You Laugh," does good on his group's promise Tuesday night with his "six object" juggling routine.

Crowd pleased with comic variety

By PAMELA LILL
Activities editor

"We Can Make You Laugh," a comedy game show sponsored by the University Board, made a big hit with a rather small but very lively crowd Tuesday night.

The show was broken up into two different parts. Three comedians, Joe Duncel, Anthony Griffin and Danny Ballard performed individually to begin the show.

"Mr. T" made an appearance when Griffin took the stage. What people don't know, Griffin said, was that Mr. T was an avon man before becoming a bouncer, body-guard turned actor. His impression of Mr. T as an Avon lady really got the audience going.

Griffin continued his routine when he told the Eastern crowd that a majority of them were suffering from being born with "white side-affects."

The symptoms, Griffin claimed where "having trouble finding a job because you're not a minority," as well as "always being beaten at sports." The cure to this tragic disease? "Black-o-matic soap!"

The third comedian, Ballard, really got the audience going with his impressions of a prune, an egg and Yoda. He claimed his whole family was related to Yoda, there was papa yoda, mama yoda, and his sister toy(oda).

During the second part of the show, audience members were randomly chosen from ballots they had filled out before the show.

If the contestant kept a "deadpan face" and didn't "smile, grin, laugh, or put a puddle on the floor," they won $25 and a "We Can Make You Laugh" T-shirt.

It took two contestants before Jessica Allen became a winner. Allen kept a straight face through Ballard's "Pumpkin Man," his impression of roll-on deodorant and Duncel's representation of "Elmer Fudd's disease."

The second winner of the night, Trevor Kampfl, said he kept a straight face because "they just don't look funny up close, and then you start thinking about the $25."

The group has been performing for about two and a half years, Duncel said. They travel from August-November and from January-May, he added.

"We have two days off between now and Thanksgiving," Duncel said, adding that last year they put 110,000 miles on a new van.

The group were just informed that they were on the final ballot for Entertainer of the Year in the Novelty and Variety Act category. "It's an honor we made it this far, if we won it would be just unreal," Duncel said.

Kim Hagen, UB special events coordinator, said, "I think it was a real good show," adding that there is a possibility that the group will return next year.

Instructors agree with budget hike

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

Several Eastern instructors and administrators said they agree with the Board of Governor's recommended 10 percent increase for Eastern's Fiscal Year 1987 budget.

The BOG recommended the increase, which would go toward instructors' salaries, as a means of battling inflation.

"It's a realistic amount," Donald Dolton, president of Eastern's chapter of the University Professionals of Illinois, said of the increase. "It's still going to take quite a number of years to make up for the amount we lost to inflation."

Carol Elder, UPI-BOG council executive vice president, said, "The salary situation has improved somewhat in the past two years."

The FY '86 tentative contract contains a 9.25 percent wage increase and includes an 8 percent across-the-board increase. The contract has yet to be officially ratified by the union.

The FY '85 contract contains a 7.4 percent increase in salary. Both are above the rate of inflation.

"They (teachers) hope that this continues," Elder said. "The legislature has been appropriating very little in salary increases for the past 10 to 15 years."

"Teachers were, in effect, funding the schools," she added. "If the 10 percent stays the same, it could do a lot to make up."

Assuming the new contract is approved, instructors' salaries will increase by 117 percent from FY 1974 while inflation has raised prices by 158 percent for the same period.

"As a teacher, you want your work to be appreciated and rewarded," Elder said. "It's going to take a considerable number of years of salary increases above the rate of inflation if teachers are going to keep what they have gained."

She added that since the proposed increase must still be approved by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, the Illinois General Assembly and the governor, the amount could be lowered considerably.

"I have no idea (if the proposed increase will pass)," Dolton said. "It depends on a number of unknown factors. Who is governor at the time and the economic climate are the two major factors."

During the Dec. 4 IBHE meeting, testimony supporting significant raises in instructor salaries was presented by The Illinois chapter of the American Association of University Professors; Thomas D. Layzell, executive director of the BOG; William Lehman, chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee of the IBHE; and Margaret Schmid, president of the UPI.

Strike settled as board, CEA agree on pact

From staff reports

Charleston school teachers returned to their classrooms Wednesday morning after a settlement between the Charleston Education Association and the school board was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, a three-year pact, calls for average salary increases for teachers of 12 percent the first year and 10 percent the second year. A raise for the third year is dependent on the amount of state aid the school district will receive.

The agreement, which according to union negotiators was ratified unanimously by teachers, will go before the school board for final ratification Wednesday night.

The end of the strike was particularly good news for about 50 Eastern student teachers who had been assigned to teach in Charleston schools for credit.

"Our problems are over, and we're delighted," said Francis Summers, Eastern's director of student teaching, after receiving news of the settlement Tuesday. "They (student teachers) will just pick up where where they left off."

Summers and others in the Education Department were prepared to meet Wednesday night to formulate a reassignment strategy should the strike drag on longer than this week.

When the strike began last week, Eastern's Education Department began discussing the possibility of transferring student teachers to schools as far as 50 miles away to finish their class credit.

The student teaching requirements are set up so the student teachers could have survived a two-week strike and still have been able to finish their teaching credits in one school year.

Charleston's strike lasted five class days, and under the proposed settlement, teachers will be docked two days of pay with the other three days being made up at some point during this school year.

The primary compromises under the proposed agreement can be found in the union agreeing to a three-year contract and the board agreeing to base the third year's salary on the amount of state aid the district will receive.

"Both sides won a little, and hopefully no one lost with this agreement," CEA negotiator John Easter said. "We don't intend for any animosity to interfere in the teaching process regardless of professional disagreements."

Late last week, the board offered a three-year contract with increases that would average 12 and 10 percent during the first two years and 6 percent the third year.

School Superintendent Bill Hill said the board is satisfied with the proposed settlement, adding that there should be no problem getting it approved at Wednesday's board meeting.

Hill said he also believes the teachers' union is satisfied with the settlement. "They (the teachers) seemed very happy," Hill said.

Man seeks to prove existence

CHICAGO—A year ago, George Blankston was declared dead by the Social Security Administration. The 68-year-old Northwestern University professor had been trying to prove the agency wrong ever since.

"It's a terribly sad commentary on bureaucracy," the political science professor said Tuesday.

"I am disgusted and angry. But I don't spend my entire life thinking about it. I have other things to do," said Blankston, whose death recently was reaffirmed in a Medicare review.

"I've been with the agency 20 years, and I've never seen a case that's been this troublesome," said Carlene Sensenbrenner, manager of the Social Security office in suburban Glenview. "There have been erroneous death determinations, but they usually are fixed more smoothly."

Ms. Sensenbrenner said she believes Blankston officially rejoined the living Tuesday afternoon.

Blankston said his troubles began last year when his doctor submitted a bill for a routine test to Medicare.

Highway accidents on increase

CHICAGO—The 1984 accident rate on Illinois Highways averaged one per minute for a 7.2 percent increase over 1983, marking the first annual rise in six years, state transportation officials say.

Traffic injuries also rose 7.2 percent in 1984, while the number of fatalities increased 1.2 percent, according to a report issued Monday by the state Department of Transportation.

A total of 466,330 traffic accidents were reported in 1984, up from 435,140 the previous year.

The report said 1,572 people died in Illinois traffic accidents in 1984, up from 1,553 in 1983. Injuries increased to 173,980 in 1984 from 162,270 in 1983.

Last year's higher traffic toll was one reason the state supported enactment of the new mandatory seat belt law, said department spokesman Richard Adorjan.

State safety experts blamed road construction projects in part for the higher accident rate, Adorjan said.

Baby-selling ring investigated

CHICAGO—Illinois residents are among the targets of an investigation of a nationwide baby-selling ring that has brought an estimated 200 children into the country in the past two years, authorities say.

A.D. Moyer, Chicago district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Illinois is a "central location" for the ring, and "we're gathering information and looking toward indictment."

Last month, immigration agents arrested two California women accused of running the baby-selling operation, which authorities said obtained children from a halfway house for unwed mothers in Tijuana, Mexico.

The babies were sold to American couples for as much as $10,000 each, officials have alleged.

"We have come upon information that more and more people are wholesalers in Illinois," Moyer said.

Reagan disputes Geneva summit if Soviets block 'Star Wars' tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan said Tuesday night he would rule out any summit agreement with the Soviet Union that would block testing and development of his controversial "Star Wars" space based missile system.

But the president, answering questions at his first formal news conference in three months, indicated he might be willing to negotiate with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev over the deployment of the controversial system.

With the Reagan-Gorbachev summit set for Nov. 19-20 in Geneva, the president also defended the test of an American anti-satellite weapon. He said the Soviets have tested such a system, and added, "We couldn't stand by and allow them to have a monopoly on the ability to shoot down satellites."

Reagan said he was taking his prospective summit meeting seriously but added he doesn't plan on giving the Soviet leader "a friendship ring or anything."

"It isn't necessary that we love or even like each other," he said, but that it is important for the two superpowers to negotiate.

Reagan opened his news conference with a call for "free and fair trade for all," and cautioned that a "mindless stampede toward protectionism will be a one-way trip toward economic disaster."

With numerous bills pending in congress to slap restrictions on American trading partners, the president said free trade can lead to a "decade of growth" and creation of 10 million new jobs in this country.

The U.S. trade deficit is expected to be in the $150 billion range this year, prompting calls for protection for numerous American industries.

Reagan said imposing restrictions against this country's trading partners could produce countermeasures against American industry and agriculture.

The president never used the word veto—and never mentioned the word congress—as he discussed trade. But his message was unmistakable, coming a few hours after the Senate Finance Committee took a step toward having the government retaliate against countries which close their doors to imports of American-made telephone equipment.

Reagan also defended his policies toward South Africa's white-ruled government, saying, "I think that when you're standing up against a cellophane wall and you're getting shot at from both sides you must be doing something right. If it had all come from one direction, I would have looked again and said, 'Well did I miss something here.'"

Espionage rocks West Germany

BONN, West Germany (AP)—A secretary in Chancellor Helmut Kohl's office has fled to Communist East Germany in the first spy case to hit the nation's highest office since a 1974 scandal toppled Willy Brandt, officials said Tuesday.

The defection marked the latest in a drumfire of espionage incidents that began rocking Kohl's conservative coalition government last month. The scandal earlier touched the president's office and shook up Bonn's spy system.

West German radio, citing Bonn security sources, said the latest defector, Herta-Astrid Willner, may have had access to secret information about the U.S. "Star Wars" program and a French-led high-technology project.

Government officials said the 45-year-old secretary, who had worked in the chancellor's office nearly 12 years, had no access to material about the two projects.

Mrs. Willner fled to East Germany with her husband, Herbert. Chief federal prosecutor Kurt Rebmann said both were under investigation on suspicion of spying.

Her 59-year-old husband worked in the Naumann Foundation, which is closely tied to the junior party in Kohl's coalition government, and had once been a member of East Germany's Communist Party, Rebmann said.

Bonn security officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Willner had been under suspicion for some time.

In resignation letters sent to their respective employers, the couple said they had fled to East Germany, Rebmann said.

Axel Wernitz, an opposition Social Democrat and chairman of the Parliament's Interior Committee, said the latest case would cause "considerable damage" to West Germany.

Deputy government spokesman Juergen Sudhoff said Mrs. Willner's defection marked the first spy case to hit the chancellor's office since the Brandt government fell.

In 1974, the popular Social Democrat was forced to resign when it was revealed that a ranking chancellor aide, Guenter Guillaume, was an East German spy.

SIU advised against viable bonds with South Africa

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

While the Eastern Illinois University Foundation has found relatively little opposition to its investment ties to apartheid South Africa, Southern Illinois University's Foundation continues to take heat from faculty, Board of Trustees members and a student organization.

SIU's Board of Trustees advised all SIU organizations—including the SIU Foundation—against placing money with U.S. corporations and investment firms with branches in South Africa.

Meanwhile, SIU's Graduate and Professional Student Council advised both the BOT and Foundation there against doing the same, although BOT Chairman Harris Rowe said the body has no investments with South Africa.

The Foundation's South African investments have been whittled down from $1.093 million in 1983 to $423,954.50 as of June 30, according to Center Trust Co. of St. Louis. But both trustees and students still see that any figure as excessive.

Eastern's Foundation renewed in late August its investment contract with Harris Bank of Chicago, without limiting funds to South Africa, but adding a stipulation that firms with Foundation money must abide by the Sullivan Principles.

The Sullivan Principles are a set of business practices for U.S. companies in South Africa which are meant to help eliminate the economic disadvantages of blacks there.

SIU Foundation President Stanley McAnally said, "There is a resolution passed by the (nine-member) executive committee and it has been mailed to the full foundation board for their consideration."

But McAnally would not say which direction the executive committee voted—for or against divestiture. "Not publicly. I can't presume to speak for them. It's a private foundation."

Three other SIU Foundation executive committeemen reached Tuesday refused to comment on which way they voted.

SIU's Daily Egyptian reported Friday that in reading the BOT statement, Rowe said, "This board condemns violations of human rights and dignity throughout the world, including the apartheid policies of South Africa."

"It believes that the board and the universities it governs should avoid investing funds in companies conducting business in South Africa unless the companies have subscribed to and are certified to be actively supporting the 1979 Sullivan Principles," Rowe said.

Tutors available to help with rough classes

By JULIE LEWIS
Staff writer

As the fourth week of the fall semester slowly creeps in, some students may find themselves struggling with a particularly difficult class. This is the time to meet with an Eastern tutor.

"Don't wait," says Academic Adviser Fran Lewis. "Be aggressive and familiarize yourself with our tutors."

Lewis added that students often wait too long before getting help, not realizing tutors are available for reviewing as well as teaching.

The tutors, who are mostly graduate assistants and upperclass volunteers, are set up by each academic department, Lewis said.

Math Department Chairman Haldon Anderson said, "We get an average of 2,500 students per semester through our tutoring program."

Although most departments have instructors announce tutoring hours and rooms during class, some place notices in buildings.

Chemistry Department Chairman David Ebdon said his department has

Don't wait. Be aggressive and familiarize yourself with our tutors.

—Fran Lewis
Academic Adviser

two tutoring programs available.

"Our volunteer program, now in its second year, is run by members of the Chemistry Club," Ebdon said. "The graduate assistant program is entering its seventh year of service."

Another popular tutoring program is run by the English Department.

Jeanne Simpson, director of the Writing Center at Coleman Hall, said 10 percent of Eastern's students make it into the center at least once.

"Our best advertisement is word of mouth," she said. "Students go tell their friends how helpful the tutors were, and then they come in for help also."

The Center is currently operated by nine graduate assistants working to fulfill their own graduation requirements.

"Our tutors are friendly and eager to help as much as possible," Simpson said.

She noted that the Writing Center is not a remedial program and that visiting the Center is not an admission of defeat, because all writers need help.

Simpson, who will become President of the National Writing Center Association in November, said the tutors won't proofread papers or explain poetry, but they do help with organization, structure and grammar problems.

The Center began five years ago to help the estimated 5 percent of students who fail the Writing Competency Exam, but the Center's mission is greatly extended now.

"We are knowledgeable friends willing to point out and help with problems," Simpson said.

Restructuring CUPB may slow its productivity

Eastern President Stanley Rives should not tinker with what seems to be a finely-tuned machine.

Despite a North Central Association recommendation last spring that was critical of the Council of University Planning and Budgeting, there seems little reason or need to restructure the group. Yet, such a drive is currently underway by the Faculty Senate.

Editorial

Last week, the senate said it would like to see more students and faculty members on the administrator-heavy board. We've always been for increasing the student voice, but CUPB, under its current structure, is running smoothly.

Members are prepared for meetings. Proposals to the board are studied before the CUPB discusses them. Time is expedited in the already lengthy budgeting process.

Currently, there are 20 members who serve on the CUPB. Ten of these members are administrators. The other 10 are faculty members, civil service workers and students. The senate would like the board altered to provide a more equal representation.

But while an even balance on some student faculty boards is necessary, that structure could hinder the CUPB's productivity.

CUPB members need to have the interests of the university as a whole in mind when making decisions on how to allocate university monies.

Student or faculty members may not be as concerned with the university's future development or financial concerns that are not in their particular areas.

Several other student faculty boards run into problems because members aren't prepared for meetings or just don't show up. The CUPB cannot afford to take this risk.

Out-of-control and lengthy debates about the budget, constant tabling of budget items, formation of ad-hoc committees and members looking out only for their interests would be devastating to a board that is already in good condition.

Your turn

University needs tuition installments

Editor:

A recent national study shows that university enrollments among minority and low-income students is declining rapidly. The problem is a sharp increase in the cost of education in the '80s and a decrease in real money available for student loans.

While federal student aid monies increased 380 percent from 1963 to 1980, federal aid has decreased from 23 percent from 1980 to 1984. At the same time the cost to the student of higher education has increased more in the 1980-84 period than in the entire preceding 20 years.

Currently, Eastern's position of not permitting installment tuition payment (alone of the BOG schools in this position) does not reflect a conscious concern for the aforementioned problems. A public university should not follow policies even though succeeding in sustaining satisfactory enrollment and a healthy financial status, which favors an education for the privileged only.

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor.

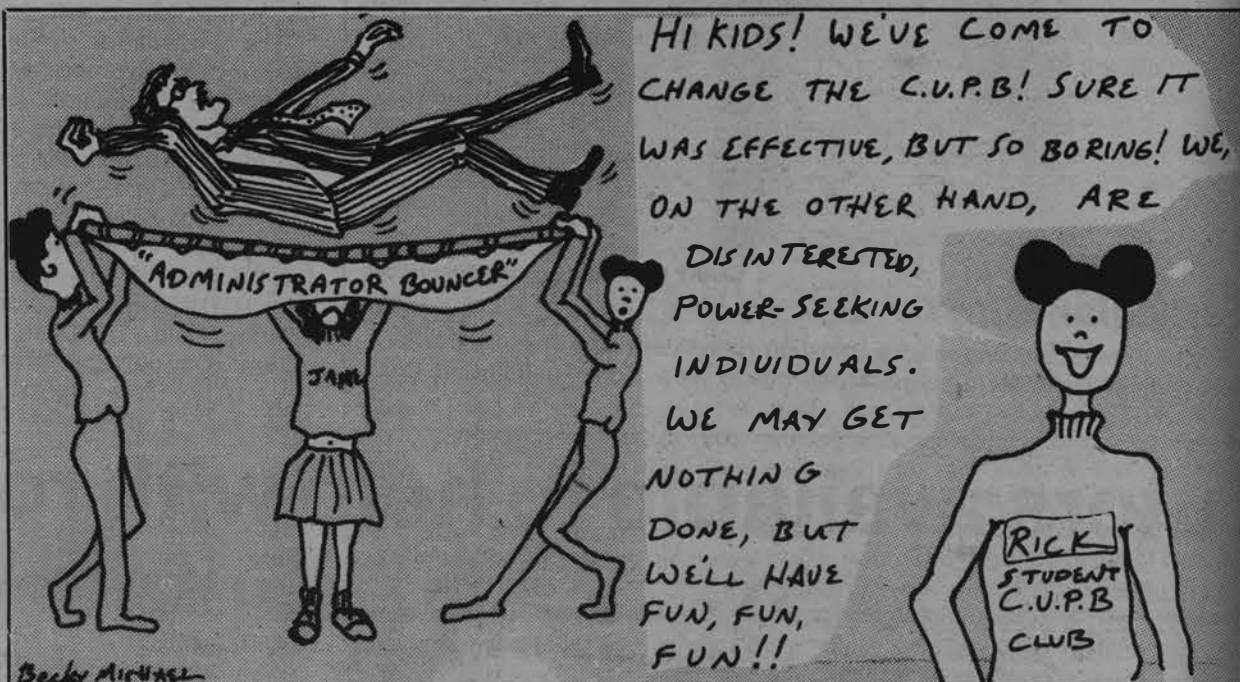

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Letters submitted without a name (or with a pseudonym) or without a telephone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Authorship of letters will be verified by telephone or by means otherwise specified by the author prior to publication.

Names will be withheld only upon justifiable request.

Letters should not exceed 250 words.

Countdown for the other world begins

As I muddle through the beginning of my senior year, I'm starting what seems to be a career of self-doubt. At least, it'll be a career until I get (and manage to keep) my first real professional job in journalism.

When I was in high school, a short four years ago, people who were in college were deemed demigods. It's the same practice that happens in every grade level, though. Whoever is oldest is looked upon by the younger to be successful, at least enough to have progressed to a higher grade level.

Toward the end of high school, as I looked forward to college, I began to doubt how I would do in college. I was never an outstanding student—saying I was a poor student is actually being kind. Well, somehow, somehow, I have managed to get to my fourth year and my third school, and have been told that if I pass everything, I will finish my classes by the end of intersession and graduate in August.

Graduate.

A fairly short word, but it means so much to those who struggle to complete a goal—one that perhaps was set for us by our parents even before our birth. I can remember when I was about 12, I told my parents I wanted to quit high school at 16 and get a job. My parents, who are both teachers, were horrified.

When the end of my high school days rolled around, I briefly toyed with the idea of not going to college, but the only ones at our high school who didn't go to college were those who had gotten pregnant or were getting married. Since I didn't fit into either of those categories, I opted for college.

For many different reasons, all of them stupid in retrospect, I began my college career at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb/Doo-Daw, home of the Huskies and numerous cornfields. I stayed there for awhile, then came home and went to an area community college. I hesitated to go to this college—in high school, we called it Losers' Last Chance College.

Well, I stayed there for awhile, too—managed to receive a degree—and then I showed up here early last fall, hoping it would be the last college I enrolled

Notebook:

Julie Zook

This semester, in fact, will be something of a milestone for me. If I pass everything and stay for spring semester, it will have been the first time for me to stay at a school longer than three semesters.

But I have been thinking about a lot of other things this fall. Like next semester and intersession and trying to get through those. And then—the big transition. From full-time student to full-time employed person. It's a big step—ask any recent graduate. To prepare, you have to get together a one-page summary of why you're so great and why you deserve a job—it's commonly called a resume.

And then interviews. Omigod. Interviews. Lying through your teeth and baring your soul to somebody you may never see again—rather like a psychiatrist, I suppose.

And then... the job. If you're lucky enough to find one you like within the first year of graduation, congratulations. But it'll be so different than school. Sure, you'll get dental benefits and insurance, but what about vacation? If you're lucky, you might get one week vacation after you've worked there for a year.

Just think—no more three month's vacation in the best three months of the year. No more two or three weeks off for winter break in the worst weeks of the year. No more one week off in the spring for the annual pilgrimage to Ft. Lauderdale.

It's the end of life as we know it. No more tests. No more pop quizzes. No more treks to the library in the dead of winter.

Somehow, life in the real world doesn't look that bad.

Two blood sources more popular due to AIDS transfusion concerns

NEW YORK (AP)—Worry about AIDS from blood transfusions has made two little-used blood sources more popular for some surgical patients: friends and relatives, and the patient himself.

The increased popularity of using the patient's own blood reflects not only public concern about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, but also heightened awareness among doctors and patients about other hazards of transfused blood, an awareness crystallized by AIDS, blood banking officials say.

Only about 200 cases of AIDS, less than 2 percent of the nation's total, have been traced to blood transfusions. Blood donors are not at risk.

AIDS among hemophiliacs, which accounts for less than 1 percent of the nation's cases, is traced not to transfusions but injections of a blood-derived substance to promote clotting.

In addition, since the link to transfusions was discovered, blood banks have started screening blood for the suspected AIDS virus and people in high-risk groups have been asked not to donate, said Dr. Joseph Bove, chairman of the transfusion-transmitted diseases committee of the American Association of Blood Banks.

"The risk (of AIDS) was extremely low before. It's still lower now," he said.

But that risk has made physicians and lay people look more closely at the alternative sources of blood supply, interviews with officials and spokesmen at national blood organizations and half a dozen local blood banks show.

Apart from worry over AIDS itself, the disease has focused attention on other hazards of transfusion, chiefly hepatitis, said Dr. Robert Thurer, chairman of the blood bank association's committee on autologous transfusion. Autologous transfusions are those the patient makes to himself.

Hepatitis is a far greater risk than AIDS in transfusion, but it generally appears only in mild cases, said Bove of the association.

Virus of Fear: AIDS

This is the third in a four-part series concerning the medical, emotional and social aspects of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

The patient's own blood is "the absolute safest product you can have," Thurer said. "There's certainly been a lot of increase in interest around the country" in autologous donations, especially in the past year and a half because of AIDS, Thurer said.

One approach is essentially recycling a patient's blood during surgery, he said. Another is banking the patient's blood ahead of time. If he is healthy and can schedule elective surgery far enough in the future, he makes periodic blood donations to cover his expected blood needs: about a pint or two for some kinds of plastic surgery, Thurer said. Normally the patient can donate about a pint a week, he said.

Autologous donations at South Florida blood service in Miami have risen steadily since AIDS was linked to transfusions, said spokesman Tom Donia. The blood bank used to handle about 10 autologous donors a month, and that number has risen to about 80, he said.

Similarly, the Belle Bonfils Memorial Blood Center in Denver handles about 30 autologous patients a month, up from maybe one or two a week last year, said Dr. Robert Chapman, director. "I think that AIDS has been a stimulus to people," he said.

The other strategy, rounding up people to donate blood for one's own surgery, is generally discouraged by blood officials.

One problem is that the rounded-up donors may secretly be in high risk groups for AIDS.

Hasara influenced by political background

By JULIE ZOOK
Government editor

Although Financial Vice President Ann Hasara does not have a lot of experience in student government, she was brought up in a politically-oriented family.

Her mother, Karen, has been active in Springfield politics since Hasara was 10 years old, and currently serves as Sangamon County Circuit Clerk.

The Springfield born-and-bred Hasara has always been exposed to state government, as well as serving a stint with Secretary of State Jim Edgar's office.

Hasara, a junior marketing major, gained her first student government experience as a student member of the student legislative committee. Hasara later became committee's co-chairman.

She was appointed as an at-large senator in fall 1984 and was elected as financial vice president last April.

Hasara said her main priority is to get all of the members appointed to Apportionment Board, of which she is chairman. Three more members are needed to fill AB, she said.

She said she plans to have AB members, especially new members, attend the meetings of the six boards which AB oversees so the members are aware of the boards' functions.

Hasara said she hopes that information will help the members when they begin the budgeting procedures for the different boards.

"I'm planning to attend as many (board meetings) as I can," she said.

Hasara said her job involves "a little more work than I expected, but I can handle it."

Hasara, a member of Student Body President Floyd Akins' TIME party, said she believes that there is no discord in the upper ranks of student government because of party differences.

"After the election, the parties were dead. After that, it didn't matter," she said. "I don't feel it's a problem and I don't feel it will be."

Hasara said she believes senate will focus on several issues during the year. Although "it's pretty early in the semester," senior seminars, security and financial aid are the big items on the senate agenda.

"A big problem with the senior seminars is that some seniors aren't able to get into them" while there are juniors enrolled in the classes, she said.

And on the security issue, Hasara said, "I do feel it's a problem. . .and I don't want something to happen before something is done" about the problem.

She said there are a variety of suggestions on security that senate is looking at, but none of the proposed programs can be funded by student activity fees because security is not considered an activity but a "departmental function."

In addition, Hasara said she has talked to several Eastern students who are concerned about deferred payments for tuition.

She said senate is "going to work on that, but it's still in the implementing stage."

Student discount cards in final completion process

Student discounts cards are expected to be completed next week, according to Student Senate Speaker Larry Markey.

The senate will be given an update on the discount card progress at its meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room, Markey said.

Distribution of the student discount cards will begin soon after the cards are completed, he said.

Markey said the student awareness committee and the university relations committee will also report on the progress of a joint philanthropy project.

The groups are working on a program called Kids for Christmas, which will unite the senate, the Residence Hall Association and various Greek groups in bringing needy children from the Charleston area together for Christmas.

Markey said tentative plans include a dinner and presents for the children.

Senate is also scheduled to approve board and senate appointments, Markey said.

The Legislative Leadership committee was scheduled to interview applicants during a Tuesday night meeting, with those approved going to senate for final approval Wednesday.

Twenty-two people applied for 10 vacant senate seats, Markey said, but added some of those have already dropped from the running.

Seven of those who applied were interviewed by the committee last week, he said. Seven more were slated for the Tuesday agenda.

The new senators, three from the at-large districts, three from the residence hall districts and four from the off-campus districts, will be formally seated on senate at the meeting, Markey said.

Richardson chosen MS leader

Eastern to join inaugural nationwide campus fund drive

By JULIE ZOOK
Government editor

Former Student Body President Angelynn Richardson has been selected to serve as Eastern's campus coordinator for a nationwide fundraising drive to benefit multiple sclerosis.

Richardson, a senior, was selected after an interview last spring, she said.

"It's unbelievable," Richardson said Tuesday. "It'll be the biggest thing to hit Eastern since its founding."

Richardson returned to campus Sunday after a five-day leadership conference in Miami which, she said, made her into a "changed woman."

"I learned more in five days than I've learned in 21 years," she said.

She is in charge of coordinating a campus committee which will oversee the campus fundraising drive, she said. The committee will be finalized by the Oct. 1.

The drive will begin in October and last through the middle of March, Richardson said. The campus which raises the most money will win an MTV-sponsored concert at its campus.

This is the first year for a nationwide campus drive, Richardson said. The national MS organization held a test-market drive last year with 12 schools participating. The University of Notre Dame raised the most money, she said.

Richardson said a medical doctor spoke to the members of the Miami conference and explained exactly what MS is and how it affects victims.

"It can hit anyone from 18-35 (years of age)," she said. "It hits you in the prime of life. There's no cure and no cause. Once you're diagnosed,

It'll be the biggest thing to hit Eastern since its founding.

—Angelynn Richardson
Campus coordinator
Multiple Sclerosis
Campaign

nobody knows what'll happen next."

Richardson continued, saying, the disease "hits our own age group," and it's a disease that affects the central nervous system—the spine and the brain.

Some 250 million people in the United States are diagnosed as having the disease, Richardson said, and 200 new cases are diagnosed weekly.

"I'm going to hit everybody and their dog" for donations, Richardson said. "We'll put Eastern on the map."

"We're doing this for people who can't do this for themselves. . . it's the least we can do for these poor people."

Richardson said anyone interested in joining the committee should call her at 345-2376.

Instructors from page 1

Regents of the Regency University System, said in testimony, "In addition to the severe erosion of faculty and staff earning power, state universities in Illinois are increasingly confronted with competition from other states which provide significantly higher salaries."

"We have lost a number of good people (instructors) because we were unable to keep salaries competitive," Dolton said. "No one likes it (the salary situation), but we keep on teaching."

Eastern president Stanley Rives' budget report to the Council of University Planning and Budgeting, which includes the proposed increase, contains material compiled by the IBHE showing that not only is Eastern far behind comparable schools in average salary, but that all BOG schools are behind non-BOG schools in comparable average salary.

"Our salaries have not kept pace with other institutions," Rives said.

"We will make progress with that this year."

Eastern's average salary is 13.2 percent lower than median salaries at comparable universities, the report shows.

Rives stated that comparable schools are similar in size, enrollment, and range of programs. Ball State in Indiana and Southwest Missouri are comparable to Eastern, according to Rives.

These percentages are based on average salaries in a school's comparison group, not based on comparisons to other Illinois schools, which might have different enrollment or a different range of programs, and therefore, not be truly comparable.

The total proposed budget for the 1987 fiscal year, including the increased salary budget, totals $46 million, a 21.7 percent increase over last year's budget of $37.8 million. The 10 percent salary budget increase totals $2.78 million.

Student seminar planned

By AMY DOLAN
Staff writer

Do you find yourself walking away from classes confused and out of touch with your teachers and the material they cover?

Students will have the opportunity to bridge the gap between themselves and teachers by attending "What's Your Learning Style?," a seminar sponsored by the Counseling Center at noon on Wednesday in the Greenup room of the Union.

Shirley Moore, dean of academic development, will present the seminar, which focuses on blending a student's learning style with the teaching style of a possibly difficult teacher.

"Every participant is guaranteed to gain one additional way of dealing with the teaching style of a teacher they have difficulty understanding," Moore said.

Teachers are also encouraged to attend the informative and progressive lecture, she said.

The seminar is free and open to the public.

"New Ways to Hit the Books," a two-part workshop sponsored by the Counseling Center, will be conducted from 7-9 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday on the Pickles' Balcony in the Union.

Shirley Moore, dean of academic development, will be the speaker on Wednesday. Counseling Center Director Bud Sanders will address the audience Thursday.

The workshop helps teach students to reach good study skills by "maximizing the benefits of their study habits," Moore said.

"You do not have to study long, just smarter," she said.

The workshop, which is conducted each semester, is free and open to the public.

Class proposals, change set for CAA consideration

By MIKE BURKE
Staff writer

Five new course proposals, as well as a proposed change in a course already offered, are on the Council on Academic Affairs' meeting agenda Thursday.

The CAA will conduct its first meeting of the semester at 2 p.m. in the Effingham Room of the Union.

Three new math courses will be proposed that, if passed, will take the place of five existing ones, CAA Chairman Sue Stoner said.

Two five credit-hour courses, Calculus and Analytic Geometry I and II, and a four credit-hour course, Calculus and Analytic Geometry III, may replace five math courses currently in Eastern's curriculum, which also have a combined total of 14 credit hours.

The other new courses proposed, one each in home economics and psychology, do not replace any courses now existing.

"Nutrition and the Health of the Young Child," HEC 3152, includes information on the care of newborns and young children. "Orientation to Internship," PSY 4274, is an introductory course to prepare students who about to do a psychology internship.

A course change will be proposed for Arts and Sciences 3001, "The Survival of Humanity." The course currently fulfills three general elective credit hours. The proposal changes the credit to one hour toward the math/science requirement, and two hours toward social studies.

Edgar Schick, vice president of academic affairs, will also discuss the progress of the new credit/no credit policy at the meeting. The policy was implemented at the start of this semester.

Farm Aid

Stage reflects practicality

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—The main stage for Sunday's FarmAid concert to help America's troubled food growers is the same one used at the Live Aid concert in Philadelphia that benefited starving people in Africa.

The reason for the stage's repeat performance is more practical than symbolic, a spokeswoman for FarmAid's promoters said Tuesday.

"We know it works," said Dorene

Lauer of the Howard Bloom Organization, public relations agent for the FarmAid concert's main coordinator, Buddy Lee Attractions of Nashville, Tenn.

The circular stage, 60 feet in diameter, is rotated manually so that while one artist or group performs on the front half, a second can be set up behind a curtain on the back half, she said.

BOG restructure opposed

By TERI BROWN
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate agreed Tuesday not to support a proposal to change the executive structure of the Board of Governors system to a chancellorship.

"It sounds like we don't like this after studying it," Senate Chair Jayne Ozier said. "What was the motivation—public or internal—to do this? It may be to give up more clout. But we don't know that."

Eastern President Stanley Rives said BOG members believe the board is "operating at a competitive disadvantage" because all the other university-governing systems in Illinois operate under a chancellor.

The board's view is that a chancellor would provide a "more cohesive single voice with more clout," Rives said.

Currently, an executive director heads the BOG system. Under the proposed change, the chancellor would replace the executive director as chief executive officer of the board.

According to amendments to the BOG bylaws, the chancellor will be responsible for coordinating and managing all system-wide matters while presidents maintain "primary responsibility" for the management of the individual universities.

The senate's major disagreement was that the chancellor would be "managing" instead of "coordinating" like the executive director does now.

"This document would seem to downgrade the president and give more power to the chancellor," senate member Dick Goodrick said.

"The line of authority is the key to all of this," Ozier said. "It's a way of discussing disagreements, but it seems to be a difficult way of doing it."

Senate member Terry Perkins drew a diagram on a chalkboard to explain how authority would change.

Senate member Ken Sutton said, "The way this is now stated, unless the chancellor says you can come speak to the board, you can't. . . this is a loss of autonomy."

Others said a chancellor would be able to give orders to the president and he would "be reduced to a figurehead" by being required to carry it out.

Goodrick said the BOG restructuring would weaken the autonomy of the universities by shifting the power to a chancellorship.

"We just want to know what's not working now that necessitates such a change," Janet Norberg said.

Rives said a general concern with the proposal is "that institutional autonomy remain as strong as possible and the president still have access to the board."

Whether a system works, either the existing one or the newly-proposed one, depends on its leadership, he said.

But Rives said, "I'd leave it (BOG structure) alone. I don't see any major problems out there."

The senate also discussed the problem of violation of campus security with master keys.

Unauthorized persons have allegedly been able to get master keys to offices while not properly supervised.

"We need to make a case with some broad data. This isn't one problem you can just patch," Sutton said. "You'd get a more systematic response. One good idea would be more patrolling of the buildings."

Fighting Illini size key in sweep of Panthers

DAN VERDUN
Daily Eastern News Correspondent

CHAMPAIGN—Bigger may not always be better, but it sure didn't hurt the University of Illinois' volleyball team.

The 16th-ranked Fighting Illini utilized their superior height advantage Tuesday to sweep the Panthers in three straight games.

"It's real hard to compete against a team much bigger than you," Eastern coach Betty Ralston said. "There were a number of times they blocked hits on our side of the net.

"We don't have that luxury because of our lack of height."

Illinois, 12-0 and off to its best start in history, toppled Eastern 15-7, 15-9 and 15-5.

Eastern saw its five-match winning streak snapped and fell to 9-2.

"I really felt we were in the games," Ralston said. "It may not have appeared that way to other people watching the match, but I was pleased with the way we played.

"I was really disappointed with our serving."

Junior middle hitter Maura LeFevour took things one step further.

"Our serving was the key to us not being in the match," LeFevour said. "Also our passes weren't there, (setter) Jeanne (Pacione) was running all over the court.

"(Outside hitter) Judy (Planos) played a balanced game. She ran our offense."

The Illini, who have swept all but two of their matches this season, attacked the Panthers' middle on the majority of their hits.

"They had a lot more miss-hits in the middle that killed us than their strong hits," Ralston said. "Miss-hits

Spiker honored

Eastern middle hitter Maura LeFevour was named the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference's Player-of-the-Week Tuesday.

The junior all-Gateway selection registered seven kills and no errors in 11 attempts for a .696 hitting percentage, two block assists and two block solos in a sweep over Arkansas State in last weekend's St. Louis Invitational.

The Oak Park native also hit .750 with three assists and two block assists against Tulsa.

"I'm really surprised," LeFevour said. "I didn't know I hit that well and that consistently. We've got so much balance this year that things are a lot easier. I wasn't as surprised last year (when I won the award)."

LeFevour leads the Panthers in hitting with a .359 average. She also paces Eastern in block solos (8) and block assists (20).

really screw up a defense."

Outside hitter Diane Eiserman led the Panthers with nine kills, while Planos was tops with a .222 hitting percentage along with six kills.

Outside hitter Misty Buckhold added five kills and Pacione had 18 assists.

LeFevour, the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Player-of-the-Week, was held to just two kills.

"That freshman of theirs (middle blocker Mary Eggers) is unbelievable," LeFevour said. "I couldn't stop her."

Eastern returns to action Thursday when the Panthers travel to Indiana State for a non-conference match.

Running game triples production from last year's pace

Eastern's running game appears to be coming out of extinction.

After the first two games, the Panthers have increased the production from their ground game three-fold over last season.

The Panthers used their running game seldom last season in an offense which finished second in the nation among I-AA teams in passing yardage. For the season, Eastern averaged just 47 yards per game on the ground.

And with a season-ending injury to halfback Bernard Holland prior to season's start, the outlook for a solid rushing attack was not good.

DuWayne Pitts and redshirt freshman James Marable were thinking differently, however. The duo has helped Eastern jump its average to 134 yards per game.

Pitts has put together games of 111 and 94 yards. Marable, making his first appearance as a Panther, rushed for 90 yards on 16 carries in Eastern's victory Saturday over Indiana State.

Record chasers

Quarterback Sean Payton, looking to get back on track from an "off day" against Indiana State, could move into the No. 3 slot for career pass completions Saturday.

Football notebook/Jeff Long

Payton has 325 career completions, trailing Roger Haberer's 354 set in the 1960's. He'll need 30 on Saturday, a feat he's accomplished four times already.

•Payton's 194 yards passing Saturday was his lowest total since becoming a starter, and his 28 attempts tied a personal low.

•Roy Banks' next touchdown reception will move him into third place on the all-time list. Banks currently has 20; the school record is 27.

Gateway gab

Southwest Missouri running back Keith Williams took conference offensive player of the week honors. The all-purpose back gained 182 yards on 19 carries, caught one pass for 31 yards and returned three kickoffs for 115 yards in the Bears' 17-17 tie with Illinois State.

•Mark Farley of Northern Iowa was defender of the week, making 11 total tackles and leading a UNI defense which limited Kansas State to 184 total yards.

•Northern Iowa's surprising 10-6 victory over Division I Kansas State led to the resignation of KSU coach Jim Dickey. Dickey, who resigned under pressure, left with a 25-53-2 mark. Rumor has it that Darrell Mudra, UNI's well-travelled coach, left an application before leaving.

Punting boom

Punter/placekicker Evan Arapostathis has upped his punting average to 41.6, over eight yards above last year's 34 yard average. Even more impressive is that Arapostathis averaged 42 yards a kick against ISU while dropping three kicks on the one-yard line.

"Playing both punter and kicker takes my mind off punting," Arapostathis said. "I'm having a better season because I'm not thinking about just one."

•Former Panther Jeff Gossett, now punting for the Cleveland Browns, holds the school punting record with a 43-yard average.

Akers hopes team will be at peak

By JOHN STROUD
Staff writer

One major goal that stands above the rest for Eastern's men's cross country team this year is winning the Association of Mid-Continent Universities Conference meet on Nov. 2.

For the early part of the season, all efforts will be geared toward reaching a competitive peak on the week of the conference meet for the Panthers.

Assistant coach Tom Akers knows it will be a tough feat, but he is confident that Eastern will be one of the major contenders for the title.

"Right now it looks like Northern Iowa is going to be the team to beat," Akers said. "They graduated their one-two punch from last year so they may be a little down this year."

Akers tabs Cleveland State and Southwest Missouri State as the other main contenders along with Eastern.

One added disadvantage to preparing for the conference is the element of unknowing going into the meet. The Panthers will not run against any of the conference teams, with the exception of Western Illinois, until that telling day in November.

"We won't know anything until that day," Akers said. "We'll just have to assume all of the teams will be prepared to win."

With several colds going around the team at the moment, Akers stressed that keeping the runners in good health will be one of the main factors in keeping the team going until November.

"One of the keys to our season is whether or not we stay healthy," Akers said. "If we can do that, potentially we have a team that should be able to win the conference."

The Panthers are currently preparing to take their first road trip of the season. The team will travel to Kenosha, Wis. for the Midwest Collegiate Championships on Saturday.

Akers has narrowed the traveling squad down to eight runners who will make the trip to Kenosha. The Panthers will be without their number-one runner, Donzell Jones, because of a national guard commitment during the weekend.

The runners who will be representing the Panthers on Saturday will be seniors Dan Newman, Mitch McClure and Scott Tracy. Sophomores are Van Gardner and Dale Righter, and freshmen Brad Conte, Bruce Nie, and Jeff Williams.

Akers may also add the top two runners in Wednesday's junior varsity meet against Danville and Vincennes on Lantz Course.

One of the best Booters picked fourth in Midwest Region poll

By DOBIE HOLLAND
Staff writer

Good things come in bunches it seems. On Monday, Eastern's soccer team discovered that its 1-0 Association of Mid-Continent Universities record was good enough for first place in the conference standings.

On Tuesday, coach Cizo Mosnia received the Midwest ratings results and they also turned out well.

The Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, a culmination of coaches throughout their particular region, voted the Panthers (3-0-1 overall) a very respectable fourth place ranking in the Midwestern Region.

Not only did the Panther booters receive good marks from the ISAA, but five of the top 10 teams are from Illinois. Just a bit more evidence of the quality soccer programs that exist within the state.

"The next five or six games will be tough ones," Mosnia said. He pointed out that Eastern will face at least five of the top ranked teams.

Eastern finished behind No. 1 ranked North Texas State, a team the Panthers will face on Nov. 1, while St. Louis University is ranked second. The booters will meet the Billikens Oct. 19 at St. Louis.

Southern Methodist holds the third place slot, and the soccer Panthers will also face the Mustangs. That contest is scheduled to unfold at SMU on Nov. 3.

In fifth place this week is Air Force Academy, followed by Illinois State. Houston Baptist, rated seventh, will visit Lakeside Field on Oct. 11.

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville holds eighth; Western Illinois is ninth and

Net disappears

Eastern's soccer team is desperately trying to solve the case of the missing goal-net that vanished earlier this week.

Booter coach Cizo Mosnia said the team seemed to misplace a goal-net this week. If anyone knows of its whereabouts Mosnia has asked that it please be returned to the soccer office in 217 Lantz Building-no questions asked, he added.

"We're begging them to bring it back. They can just throw it on the soccer field and we will pick it up from there," Mosnia said.

Northern Illinois rounds off the top 10 in the Midwest.

Mosnia said, "I'm somewhat happy about the ratings. I can't complain. We only played one team in our region so far (Creighton University and they were unrated).

"I'm happy where I am right now," he added

Sixth-ranked ISU carries two talented Canadians, Rick Mancini and Mirko Rimac. "Mancini is a very good goalkeeper," Mosnia said, "and he is Larry Pretto's cousin."

Mosnia said Rimac is a Yugoslavian from Canada who is a superlative midfielder.

Eighth-ranked SIU-E sports several big and powerful fullbacks to its weapons arsenal. "They have very big fullbacks," Mosnia said. "They are able to score and they're very physical. That can be very dangerous."

Western Illinois, is beginning to come out of the chute, although its

Craig Hartman (6) and Roger Gusloff (3) sandwich an opponent in a recent game. The Panthers have been ranked a very respectable fourth in the Midwest Region.

record stands at 1-1-1. "They're up and down," Mosnia said.

Last on the list of the 10 best schools in the midwest from Illinois is tenth-ranked Northern Illinois. The Huskies have five highly touted Norwegians.

"They (the Norwegians) seem to be the ones to watch out for. It seems they all came from the same town," Mosnia said jokingly.

Linksters swing over to Indiana for ISU-E Invite

By MIKE MADIGAN
Staff writer

Eastern's golf team, coming off what coach Paul Lueken called "a very competitive week," appears ready for its next challenge as the linksters head for the Indiana State-Evansville Invitational Wednesday at the Oak Meadow Golf Course.

Southern Indiana, along with host Indiana State-Evansville, will make up the Panthers competition. "Both are quality teams, so we'll have our work cut out for us," Lueken said. "Oak Meadow should be a good test for us—it's a tough course."

Eastern is coming off an impressive start after finishing third last week at the Illinois State Quadrangular in Normal.

Headlining the Panthers was senior team captain Dave Ransom, who took medalist honors with his 1-under par 70.

The Panthers will bring seven golfers to the Invitational including the five who golfed last week. "I run a competitive based line-up, meaning whoever has golfed the best that particular week golfs," Lueken stated.

Ransom, who played Oak Meadow last year as a junior, said the layout will play about three shots harder than last week's course in Normal.

"You have to have a tight driver off the tee, and keep it in the fairway or you're going to have a tough day," Ransom said.

Thus far in the young season, Lueken, in his first year, seems well-liked by his players and appears to be having a positive influence.

"So far he (Lueken) is very personable," Ransom said. "He was kind of thrown into the fire, but he has a good relationship with the team."
